

Biodiversity is our business

A powerful difference

Queensland is home to incredible biodiversity. Our breathtaking natural landscapes and iconic native species are recognised the world over. This biodiversity and variety of life including our unique plants, animals, habitats and ecosystems are essential to our well-being, culture, lifestyle and livelihoods.

At Queensland Trust for Nature (QTFN), we power environmental progress by doing things differently. We restore, enhance and protect biodiversity, habitat for threatened species and ecosystems across Queensland through sustainable land management, smart investment strategies, powerful partnerships, and proven results. Our vision is to empower more people and businesses to value and invest in biodiversity.

We partner to preserve to support:

Healthy ecosystems

Proven and effective offsets

Surviving and thriving threatened species

Sustainable agriculture and rural livelihoods

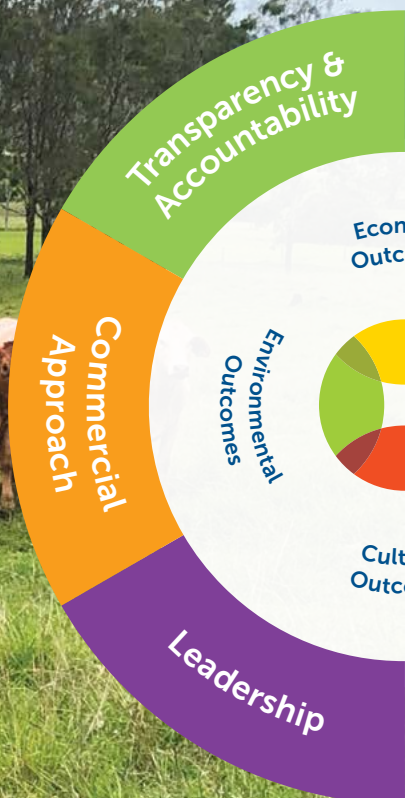

Permanent and secure land protection

Positive and productive Indigenous land management partnerships

Enlightening and inspiring research and education partnerships

We invest for impact, combining economics with ecology, and natural and financial capital to prove biodiversity makes good business sense with returns that go far beyond the 'feel-good factor'.

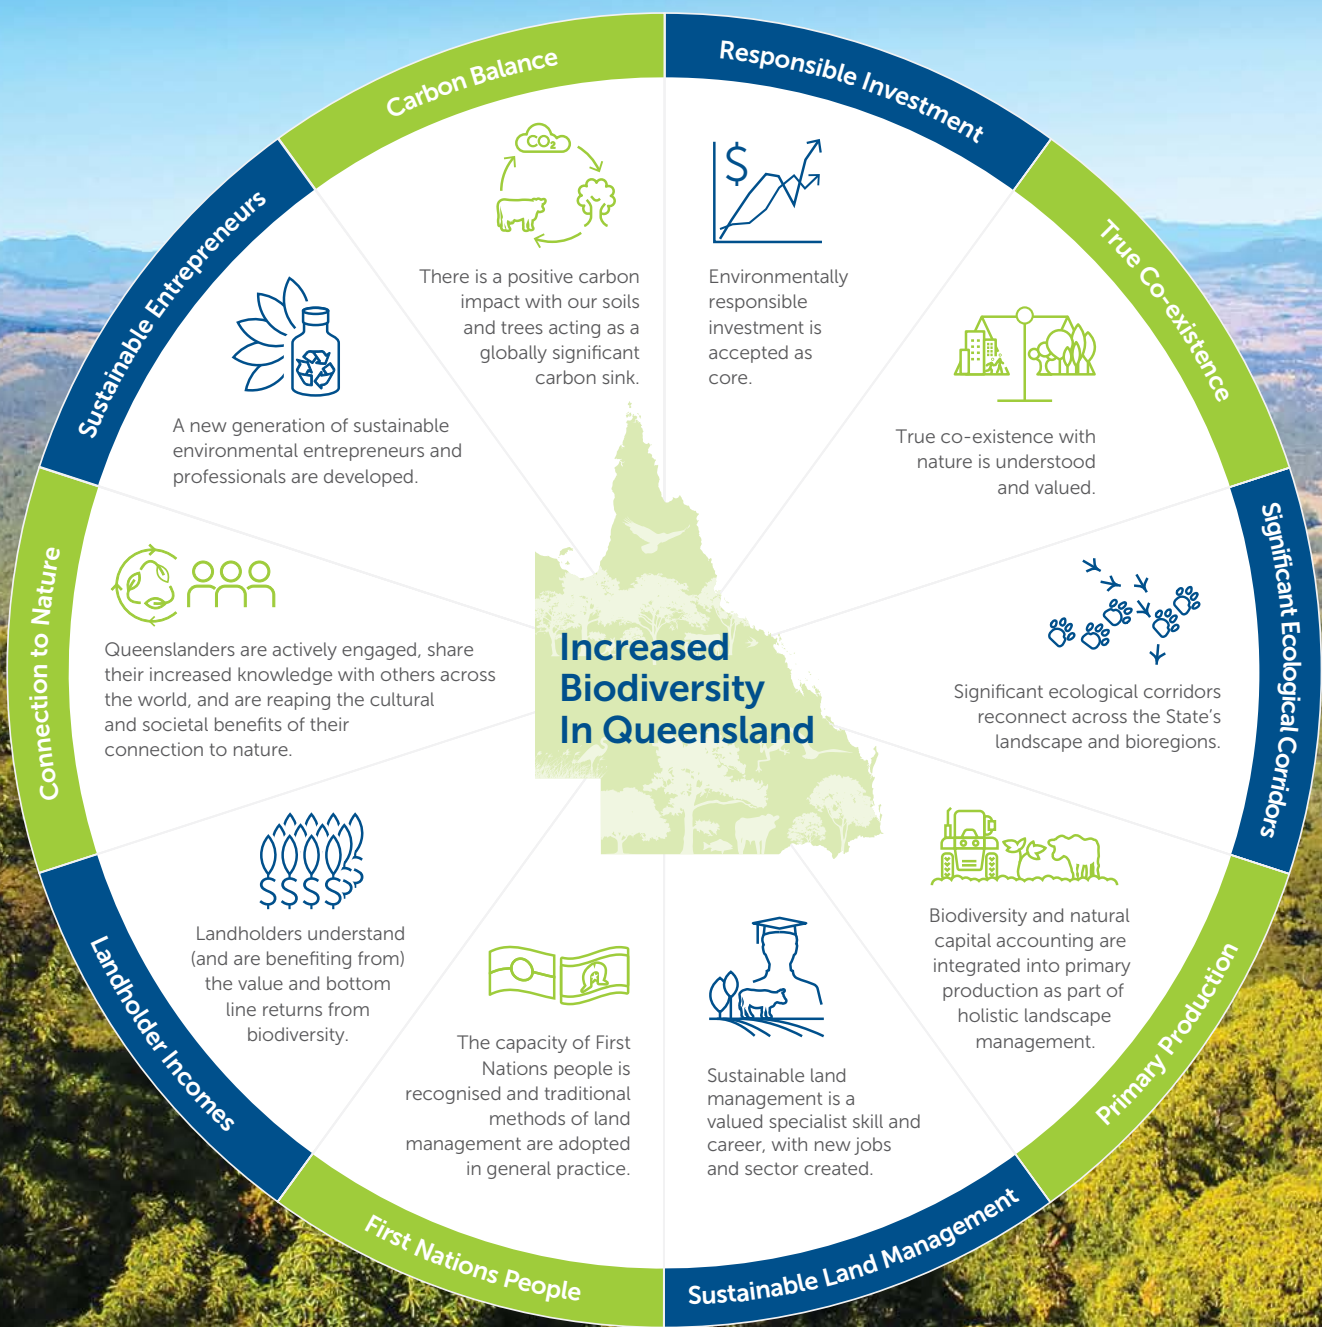

Our success is driven by our:

- Deep experience across natural landscapes, agriculture and business.
- Integrated and efficient structures and systems, professional nous, and project management expertise.
- Science and data every step of the way.
- Strong networks and partnerships.
- Specific goals, rigorous monitoring, and transparent reporting across the four key outcome areas of environmental, economic, social and cultural.

Our vision of success

We work across Queensland's diverse bioregions on private, public, QTFN-owned and Traditional Owner's land. Together with our partners and supporters we enhance our efforts, accelerate results and work to create a Queensland where increased biodiversity secures a healthy, prosperous and hopeful tomorrow for everyone.
